Fluoridation Fight Looms

County Health Director Supports Local Move To Improve Water Supply

Taking up the cudgels for hundreds of local residents who insist that Daly City's water supply be fluoridated to stop dental decay in children, Dr. Harold B. Chope, nationally respected county health director, said today:

"People who are interested in the welfare of our children will support the matter."

Whether any action on the proposed venture will be taken by the city council is still an open question, but Dr. Chope and A. J. Bodien, superintendent of the city water department, have taken strongly opposite stands.

Wait and See

Bodien told THE RECORD yesterday that he advocated a "sit tight" policy to the council in his report on the convention of the California section of the American Water Works association.

In the report Bodien stated: "I was surprised that little was mentioned about fluoridation, but I found that most were against this costly experiment.

"Systems with the plan should be allowed ample time to prove its worth and the public, by ballot, should be the deciding force."

Scientifically Proven

Dr. Chope said that in his opinion "the beneficial effects of fluoridation have been scientifically proven beyond question.

"Since it is only effective as a preventive to tooth decay from birth up to about the age of 16, you'll find that people really interested in children are the ones who make the greatest effort to bring it about."

Cost of the measure he estimated at from a minimum of two cents to a maximum of 17 cents per person per year.

Prevents 60 Per Cent

"I'm in favor of it and I've supported it right along," Dr. Chope added. "It's a good public health measure and there is no question that it prevents up to 60 per cent of all dental troubles."

San Francisco is installing fluoridation equipment at the present time and expects to go into operation some time in the early Fall. Belmont citizens recently voted "Yes" on a fluoridation proposal there, but have not yet set up their equipment.

Other Communities

Rio Vista, in Sacramento county, also has fluoridation machinery in operation, and "test" communities in the mid-west have used it successfully for nearly 10 years.

Only in San Bruno, said Dr. Chope, where City Engineer C. B. White ardently opposed the measure, has it failed to pass in the county.

WESTLAKE BOARD TO MEET MONDAY FOR BUS TALK

Call Signal Survey For Alemany Extension

Moving to solve two of Westlake's most serious problems . . . transportation and traffic control, the Westlake Property Owners Association board of directors met Wednesday evening.

A possible joint solution to the transportation headache was seen at a scheduled meeting on Monday, July 29 with the Broadmoor Property Owners board of directors. On hand will be Councilman Joseph Verducci and his transportation committee. The meeting will be held in the Westlake clubhouse, 95 S. Mayfair.

Last month the Broadmoor group suggested running the present Broadmoor shuttle bus through Westlake, thus providing enough passengers to warrant the San Francisco Public Utilities

Transportation Survey Planned

Formal request for a survey of the total transportation problem in Daly City was made to the San Francisco Public Utilities Commission this week by the city council.

In a letter to PUC official James Turner, Mayor Paul Green asked the survey be made immediately as the transportation problem, especially in Westlake, is at a critical stage.

Requests for the study follows a meeting last week between city and PUC officials at which time the council sought to get an extension of service to Westlake residents. The PUC promised a survey to determine whether a bus could operate in the "black."

Also, the mayor asked the San Francisco officials to study means of relieving the congestion of parked buses at the top-of-the-hill on Mission street. He suggested this might be done by extending service to Market street in Colma where the buses could park without blocking traffic.

CLEARING AWAY THE FOUNDATION of a house located on Bepler street, just off the Mission-San Jose intersection, workmen are preparing the ground for a new parking lot which will be constructed within the next two months. Two houses will be removed and a hill leveled to make room for the privately-operated lot. It is hoped that it will relieve parking congestion near the top-of-the-hill (see editorial page).

BROWN "NOT INTERESTED" IN CHIEF JOB; MURPHY, CORSO MAY REPLACE PATEY

One of the hottest prospects to fill the vacant shoes of Broadmoor's Police Chief today denied he was interested in the $350 a month job.

The "No" of Harry Brown, 40, 755 Stewart drive, came just 24 hours after Chief Paul Schmidt, joined by Police Commissioner Pat Patey, at a special Commission meeting Tuesday night, resigned. The walk out climaxed a long standing feud between Schmidt, Patey and the two other police commissioners.

As a Lieutenant in the reserve, Brown was imagined to be the most likely successor to Schmidt. However, the insurance claims adjuster indicated he could not afford to switch jobs.

Choice

Other possible candidates for Schmidt's badge appear to be limited to either one of the two regular officers. Both Don Tannehill, 28 and Ray Savage, 34, have been members of the force for the past year.

Commissioner Val Olson was mum today as to whom he would favor, but he indicated a choice probably would be made at a special meeting Monday, July 28 or a regular conclave, August 12.

Chances of an early appointment are heightened by the fact the police force can not afford to operate with one man short. Schmidt's resignation is effective August 1, and in the interim he is taking a vacation.

Patey's Place

Speculation was also running high as to whom the county board of supervisors will name to fill

Commission Members To Be Sworn In Monday At Council Meeting

New commission members will be sworn in by the city council at a regular meeting of that body Monday evening, July 28 at 8 p.m. in city hall, 75 Wellington avenue.

All commissioners for the police, library and planning groups have been named. However, the five man fire commission still has to be selected. This will be done early next month.

RECREATION COMMISSION CALLS FOR ROSE'S NAME ON PLAQUES

A plaque without a "Rose" isn't a plaque.

This is the opinion of the Recreation Commission which met Monday night to act on the city council's failure to include Director of Recreation Elman Rose's name on five bronze plaques. The markers, which prominently list the names of councilmen and the city gardener, commemorate the gentlemen who promoted the recreation program here.

Last week the council justified ommission of Rose's name by noting Rose, who has been active in recreation here for the past four years, was a "city employee" and therefore not due recognition. Overlooked was the fact the gardener, and even the city councilmen, are also employees.

George Pingry, commission chairman, has sent a letter to Mayor Paul Green asking for an explanation of the commission. He also requests, "if at all possible," Rose's name be added to the plaques. This the commission believes can be done by simply adding a bronze band to the base of each plaque.

The council is expected to reply at the open meeting Monday night, July 28.

Meanwhile, in fairness to Joseph Verducci and Edward Dennis, the commission noted neither of these men were councilmen at the time the plaques were ordered.

It looked today as if the "Rose" was tossed right into the laps of the mayor and Councilmen Jim Kennedy and A. J. Gaggero.

BROADMOOR POLICE NEED PATROLMAN

An examination for a patrolman for the Broadmoor police department will be held Tuesday evening at 7:30 p.m. at the Broadmoor police station.

Only qualifications for the position is that the prospective cop be a resident of the Broadmoor district—Broadmoor, unincorporated Colma and Garden Village—be between 21 and 35 years old and physically fit. Pay is pegged at $300 a month.

Additional information may be obtained by calling the station at PLaza 5-3838.

FEUD SENDS ONE MAN TO HOSPITAL

Mysterious phone calls highlighted a feud between two Daly City neighbors that came to a head Saturday when one man went to the hospital and another was arrested.

Out on $250 bail is Richard R. Maloney, 243 Wyandotte street, who is charged with beating up A. Robert Montgomery, 237 Wyandotte. Montgomery also filed a complaint against Gus Sola, 68 Flournoy street. Sola, charged Montgomery, aided in administering the beating.

Both Maloney and Montgomery said they received unidentified

City Seeks New Recreation Head

The city is looking for a full-time recreation director today to take the place of Elman Rose who will resign September 15.

Rose's resignation from the part time job he has held for the past four years was prompted by the increasing scope of the recreation department and the difficulty of at the same time teaching at Jefferson high school. Rose decided to give up the part time job in favor of teaching.

Councilmen will interview applicants next month, and Rose's successor is expected to be named early in September. Salary for

NO POLIO REPORTED IN DALY CITY - - YET

Daly City remains untouched by the scourge of infantile paralysis thus far, but 11 cases have been reported to date in the county and officials are anxiously waiting for the "polio season" to get into full swing.

Among less deadly diseases, reports the county public health division, chicken pox seems to be in style at the moment. Fifteen cases were reported in Daly City during June. One case of scarlet fever and two of tuberculosis round out the picture.

POINTING AT THE JAGGED BULLET HOLE made by a .22-caliber slug that smashed through her bedroom window and ricochetted wildly around the house is Mrs. Alfred Engels, 195 Ashland drive. Police picked up three San Francisco youths who were target-practicing in nearby hills. Mrs. Engel said that she normally sits in front of the window sewing, but was downstairs when the bullet entered.

COUNTY HELP TO BE ASKED FOR RECREATION

Daly City Commission Slates Meet Aug. 12

An effort to convince county officials that the northern half of San Mateo county is more than a source of convenient revenue will be made August 12 by the Daly City Recreation Commission.

Meeting with the San Mateo County Recreation commission, the five man local board will seek to obtain information on what plans the county has to finance recreation in the Daly City area.

Specifically, the local group is interested in development of either Thornton beach or a county park in the Crocker hills area.

Ed Cavagnaro, commission member, pointed out at the group's regular meeting Tuesday evening that the county has done little, if anything to develop recreation facilities in this area.

Conclave Set

Another meeting of importance will be scheduled next month when the commission and city councilmen hope to meet with a state recreation specialist in an effort to obtain an appraisal of the local recreation setup. Miss Gladys Snider, state expert, has been invited to attend the meeting. Date of the conclave has still to be set.

George Pingry, recreation chairman, today said he hoped from this meeting would come a better system of coordination between the city and school as regards recreation needs.

At least one step along this line was reported to the commission Tuesday night. Elman Rose, director of recreation, said playground equipment for the Westlake and Colma schools should be in early next month. The city has worked out a cooperative plan with the Jefferson elementary school system whereby the school district will supply the site and share part of the costs of establishing playgrounds.

Night Lights

While on the subject of finances, Pingry suggested several estimates be obtained for installing night lights at Marchbanks park. City Administrator Dan Andersen is now looking into the subject, and reports one plan would necessitate spending from $8,000 to $10,000.

Rose, however, estimated lights for night games could be obtained for as little as $3,500.

Pingry closed the discussion by observing an expert should be consulted before any definite

Request For Separate Post Office To Be Forwarded To Washington, D. C.

A move to divorce the Daly City post office from San Francisco and set up an independent postal system here has received the blessings of the city council, it was learned today.

Agreement to support the move came at a caucus meeting Monday evening when the council decided to submit a petition signed by over 3,500 residents to the second assistant post master general. Petition signers requested the divorce proceedings.

The council's formal stamp of approval is expected in the form of a resolution supporting the petitioners which will be acted upon at the regular open meeting Monday night.

During the past six months the independent post office movement has snowballed through Daly City, Broadmoor and Colma. Headed by Mickey DeBernardi, candidate for the city council last April, supporters assert a separate office would mean better service here.

Cancellation

A more subjective argument for the new setup comes from those who point out present Daly City mail receives a San Francisco cancellation mark, and as far as the post office is concerned this community is merely a part of San Francisco.

Had the council failed to support the petitioners, DeBernardi said he would have called for an election to settle the matter. He asserts he could have gotten enough support for such a move, but delayed because of the expense an election would cause the city.

Support

At any rate, DeBernardi and his backers are seeking all the support they believe necessary for an independent postoffice, from writing the post master to communications with Vice-Presidential candidate Richard Nixon and Senator William Knowland.

A routine inspection of Colma post office facilities set off the movement. Inspectors decided the volume of business at the particular office did not warrant carriers operating out of Colma. Consequently, today (July 24 the five carriers will have their headquarters in the Daly City office.

"This will mean nothing to the homeowners," a post office official said today. "If anything, service will be improved."

Pay Cut

However, as Supervisor of the Colma branch, Frank Micholleti, will have to take a cut in salary unless he prefers to move into another office. According to post office regulations, supervisors and postmaster's salaries are dependent upon the volume of receipts and the number of personnel. In Micholleti's case, loss of the carriers from his office spells loss of dollars.

Residents of Colma are adamant, and assert the change in the post office setup will mean a cutback in service. They deny it has anything to do with Micholleti.

Conversely, supporters of the independent Daly City-Colma post office claim Postmaster John Fixa might face a cut in his salary if revenue from the local post office was cut off.

Denial

This was flatly denied today by a post office official.

"Loss of Daly City would mean little or nothing to Postmaster Fixa. San Francisco is well over the 20 million dollar revenue class, and far from the next step of 40 million dollars which would mean an increase in pay for Postmaster Fixa and other employes."

The official went on to explain

School Building Costs Here Kept Within Reason

Former City Engineer Praises Construction

A clean bill of health was given the school construction program here this week by R. A. Klassen, former city engineer, who at the same time blasted "waste" in construction of other county schools.

Preparing a report for submission to the state school building committee, Klassen hopes to point out how taxpayers may be saved thousands of dollars by a closer check on building.

"While I haven't given the Jefferson elementary school program more than a cursory study, it appears to me there hasn't been a dollar wasted here. The foundation and structural design of the Westlake and Broadmoor schools, for example, are just fine."

Klassen did not know whether he would go into the local building problem any further. This depends, he indicated, upon the San Mateo County Property Owners Association of which he is a member and the prime mover in the campaign to cut down building costs.

Crux of Klassen's argument is that too many school plans call for "extras" which are neither

Thirsty Burglar Strips Station

A thirsty burglar used a glass-cutter to gain entrance Wednesday night to the Standard Service stattion, 392 Alemany Extension, drank half a bottle of pop, and walked off with an expensive assortment of automobile accessories, report Daly City police.

Sgts. Dave Hansen and Les Bastedo answered a call from John N. Chames, 161 Park Plaza drive, reporting the burglary.

Investigating the scene of the crime, they found the unknown thief had gained entrance to the station by cutting a rear window with a glass-cutter and knocking out the weakened pane with a bottle.

Once inside the station, he helped himself to a bottle of pop, drank half of it, and broke the bottle on the station floor.

The stolen equipment he passed through the broken window and stacked in the rear of the station.

Taken were four new tires, four new tubes, a battery, sixteen spark plugs, a flashlight and an undetermined number of other accessories.

Neighboring police departments have been alerted to watch for possible appearance of the stolen equipment.

Blue Munday

Possums Plague Local Cops

Some men attract money like a magnet. Beautiful women flock to others. But Officer Charles Munday of the Daly City police department seems to have an affinity for opossums.

Cruising the city in his patrol car Saturday night, Munday spotted a funny looking animal directly in front of his headlights on Mission street near Vale.

It Died

Stopping and getting out for a closer look, he was surprised to note that the poor creature had apparently died on him. It lay on the pavement with its toes curled up in death.

Munday however had by this time recognized the animal as an opossum, and recalling that the 'possum's favorite trick is to play dead when frightened, he hoisted the critter by its tail and took it to the station.

A Pet ?

Later, the possum was given to Joe Lewkowitz, owner of the Daly City Super Service station, corner Bepler and San Jose, for presentation to his boy as a pet.

Monday night, again patrolling the city, Officer Munday spotted another possum wandering the streets. Feeling that a man could go on with this sort of thing indefinitely, he took the animal up into the nearby hills and turned it loose.

Possums take warning; good luck is something not to be stretched too far.

Westlake Board To Meet Monday For Bus Talk

Traffic Check

Meanwhile, George Pingry, association president, reported the board will request the State Highway Department to make a traffic control survey in Westlake to determine whether or not signals can be erected. The board believes traffic lights are needed at either or both the intersections of Belmont and Alemany, and Park Merced Drive and Alemany.

According to a state formula, the signals will be installed only if the check proves there is enough traffic and pedestrians to warrant such a move.

Pingry today said he was relatively certain the state would comply with the board and conduct the survey. He said, however, he had no idea as to the outcome of the study.

Bus Shelters

Only other business before the board Wednesday was a decision to construct a bus shelter on the western end of Alemany for residents in the newer section of Westlake. Pingry said the exact location still has to be determined, but work should get under way on the project within the next two or three weks.

out the 1½ year term of Patey. The commissioner has recommended the supervisors appoint Vincent Murphy, 38, a post office employe who missed being elected to the commission by 32 votes last April.

However, another favored son is Frank Corso, 35, a Texaco employe who two years ago went down to defeat seeking a commissioner's job. Corso is believed to have the popular support of Olson and the other seated commissioner Armando Ferraris.

Patey, who lives at 120 Nimitz drive, mailed his resignation to the supervisors a week before he officially walked out Tuesday night when the other two commissioners failed to second his motion that Schmidt be asked to remain.

Griefs

Accompanying his resignation, Patey wrote a letter outlining his "griefs;"

"I told them I could not go on serving on the commission with one commissioner living outside the district."

Patey was referring to Ferraris whose voting address is Rt. 1, Box 26, Colma but who, according to Patey, spends most of his time at a ranch near Sacramento.

"The other commissioner has been attempting to dictate to police officers over the head of Chief Schmidt," Patey declared.

Row

Immediate source of the bitter row was a commission meeting two weeks ago when Olson refused to second a motion made by Patey to up Schmidt's salary from $350 to $400 a month. Olson also rejected a salary raise for Brown, a reserve officer.

At this point Brown resigned from his job as a paid member of the department. However, on July 9 he asked Commissioner Patey to withdraw his resignation. Reason for this reversal was given by Brown as:

"I felt there was more to the question than had been discussed, as well as a lot of other stuff out there I thought should be brought to the attention of the commissioners. Therefore, I thought it my duty to stay on."

Back Fence

Back fence summation of Brown's action was that he came back when he learned Schmidt was going to resign in hopes of getting Schmidt's job. However, this was cancelled out today by Brown's denial of interest in the chief's badge.

Schmidt, who for the past three years has been the youngest police chief in the state, he is 25, said his plans are indefinite. He has an application in for sergeant either with the sheriff's office or Redwood City police and, this failing, he said he might return to law school. He resides with his wife at 644 Larchmont drive.

Montgomery was taken to Junipero Serra hospital for treatment of cuts on the face, stomach, arm and leg. Four cuts on his stomach required stitches to close, and more were taken on arms and leg lacerations.

According to investigating officer John Coleman, Montgomery sold some furniture to Maloney about a year ago and alleged that he had never been paid.

Finally, he filed a complaint against Maloney to gain payment. The fight occurred shortly afterwards, when Maloney and Sola came to Montgomery's house.

Arraignment has been set for July 30 before Daly City Municipal Judge William J. Sweeney.

M. L. Steinberg, president of the Association, said a meeting will be called in the near future to present Klassen's recommendations to the public.

Council Backs Independent P. O.

San Francisco believes it can better serve the Daly City area than an independent post office. He asserted the delivery service alone might suffer if Daly City chose to divorce itself from the Bay City.

Letter

Following is the letter DeBernardi forwarded to the city council requesting their support of the independent movement:

Gentlemen:

Please find enclosed a copy of the petition which I have recently circulated in Daly City and Colma. The Petition requesting an independent Post Office for Daly City and Colma is self-explanatory.

I have in my possession approximately 3,500 signatures to the petition, and during the course of my solicitation for these signatures, I found only two people who were unwilling to sign it, and one of the two was a postal employee.

It is my belief that Daly City's growth warrants the request of the Post Master General for the independent Post Office and for relief from the proposed curtailment of service. Surely, Daly City, being the "Gateway to the Peninsula and San Mateo County," should have its own cancellation stam, and not be dependent on San Francisco, another city and another county.

I hereby request that the Daly City Council endorse this petition at its next public meeting, and officially transmit it to the First Assistant Post Master General in Washington, D. C. Upon such endorsement, I shall turn over to the council the signed copies of the signed petition in my possession.

Respectfully submitted,
Michael R. DeBernardi

OLD TIMERS ASKED TO REPORT ON WEATHER

Lacking an official weather station or an enthusiastic Chamber of Commerce, THE RECORD must hazard a guess on a recent local phenomenon.

According to our unofficial tally, the sun has been out here for almost a solid month. There have been moments of the familiar fog, but on the whole Old Sol has truly blessed Daly City.

A straight month of sunshine is almost an unheard of event in these parts, and in order to bring the local history up to date we request some of the "old timers" to drop us a line on any other time they remember such a long period of sunshine.

Letters should be sent to the Weather Bureau, THE RECORD, 3317 San Jose avenue, Daly City.

THINNER NICKEL COATINGS

The amount of nickel consumed in the plating field in 1951 was down about 60 per cent from the previous year. This sharp reduction was occasioned by governmental prohibition of nickel plating for decorative purposes and by the use of thinner nickel coatings in other applications.

EXTRA MILLIONS

Recovery of millions of tons of nickel-copper ores, previously considered unworkable, has become economically feasible because of new and improved mining methods developed in the past few years by International Nickel at its mines in the Sudbury District of Northern Ontario.

WILLIAM GANON, 318 WOODROW STREET, stands before Daly City Municipal Judge William J. Sweeney and pleads "not guilty" to smacking his neighbor, Sam Valentino, 327 Westlake avenue, with a hammer. Ganon allegedly hit Valentino over the head with a hammer he was using to build a fence on July 2. The pair were arguing over Valentino's dog, which, said Ganon, played havoc with his garden. He was charged with assault and released on $250 bail. Trial was set for August 19.

IT'S NICKEL NOT SILVER

The top grades of white metal castings in the nickel silvers usually contain over 20 per cent of nickel, along with copper and zinc. These combine the ornamental lustre of nickel with utility in its ability to resist corrosion and damage from wear, abrasion or scuffing.

MONEL FOR MARINE

Marine applications for Monel, the high nickel alloy, are constantly increasing. A West Coast ship repair company is now using hot-rolled Monel for the rubber basket on its grill net fishing boats. The basket, constantly exposed to marine corrosion, prevents fouling of the rubber as the boat passes over the fishing nets.

Pastel Roofing Newest Idea In Exterior Color for Home

Roof shingles in soft pastel colors are the most recent advance in the trend toward making home exteriors more beautiful.

These new pastels aid in imaginative decoration of the outside of a house. They extend the ways in which color can be used to make a home more expressive of the group personality of the family that occupies it.

Among the most popular pastels are red, green, and blue—colors that have been leaders among the more conventional hues. Both ranges of color are supplied in asphalt shingles, the kind of roofing material used on four-fifths of all the new houses being built.

No 'Bon-bon' Delicacy

Asphalt shingle pastels are subtle and neutral. They are grayed very slightly when the pigments are mixed. This adds body and strength. There is no trace of weakness or "bon-bon" delicacy in the color.

Pastel roofing is well suited to the low, one-story house—popularly called "ranch house"—that is typical of contemporary, small home architecture.

Although any pitched roof is an important factor in the appearance of the house it covers, with a small home the visual impact of the roof increases.

A low roof near to the ground is close to the direct line of vision of an observer. It is so prominent that its appearance plans a determining part in the appearance of the entire dwelling. No one who looks at the house can miss noticing the roof.

Colors Create Illusions

Light colors have the psychological effect of creating an illusion of greater size. If all of the exterior of a small house is styled in light colors, the house will seem to be larger than it really is. Light-colored asphalt shingles on a roof tend to draw the eye upward, making the house appear taller.

Another reason behind the liking for pastel colors is that the informality of today's architecture encourages the home-owner to decorate the exterior of his house in keeping with his individual taste. Color preferences thus are freely expressed, and it is to satisfy expanded color desires that colored building materials—of which pastel asphalt roofing is the newest—have been developed.

Pumice Rub Gives Dull, Satin Finish

To obtain a satin finish on painted woodwork, use enamel paint and then rub it to a dull finish after the enamel has hardened.

Finely ground pumice stone and oil or water are used for the rubbing. Dip a piece of felt in oil or water, then in the pumice, and then rub lightly. Use a stiff brush for rubbing moldings and carvings.

The finish will usually be duller if water is used. If oil is preferred, use paraffin oil or a light grade of motor oil.

Summer Tips on Flower Care

CLEAN SCRUB DOWN. Washing with soap and water is one way lovely Laraine Day keeps flowers bright and shiny during the hot dusty months of summer. But this is only one of six important beauty tips for summer boquets, reminds Alyn Wayne, chief stylist of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association. Here are five other hints for summer arrangements from the styling expert for the 9,500 florists who fill the nation's orders for flowers-by-wire:

(1) Unpack flowers as soon as they come from the florist; (2) Recut stems with a sharp knife; (3) "Harden" in a deep bucket of cool water two or three hours; (4) Add water daily; (5) Recut stems when flowers seem to tire.

"ROUGH IT" IN STYLE AT SUMMER COTTAGE

by the General Electric Consumers Institute

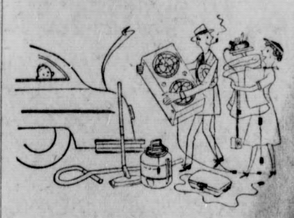
Sure, it's fun to "rough it" at a seashore cottage or a mountain cabin during vacationtime.

But most folks are not so primitive that they dispense with electricity for lighting their vacation hide-away. And if your cottage or cabin is wired for electricity, you might as well pack the car with some of the comforts of life—in the form of small electrical appliances—as well as with those suitcases full of casual clothes and the mountainous pile of Junior's toys.



Here's a what-to-take list from the General Electric Consumers Institute:

1) AUTOMATIC BLANKET—for those cool nights in the Maine woods—and to make sure your bed will feel dry when the weather is particularly humid at the shore. Turn the blanket on for a few minutes before bedtime, even if you don't sleep under it during the night.

2) HEATING PAD—for treatment of sprains, "tummy aches" and other first-aid situations.

3) ELECTRIC CLOCKS—to keep track of the passage of each precious holiday hour.

4) SANDWICH GRILL—for quick-and-easy breakfasts of bacon and eggs, for grilled sandwiches, for waffles, for indoor "hot-dog-roasts" on rainy days.

5) STEAM-AND-DRY IRON—for the occasional ironing and pressing you have to do, even on vacation.

6) TWIN-FAN VENTILATOR—to place in a window for use as a portable room air conditioner, to air out musty closets and to keep a beach cottage comfortably cool, even on a hot day.

7) VACUUM CLEANER—not because you plan to clean house every day, but because it will come in handy as an insect spray dispenser and as an aid in getting rid of cobwebs collected during the winter. And the spray attachment is good for giving cabin furniture a quick once-over with water-thinned paint, too.

CLEAN OUT THE SLUDGE

Even though cars are equipped with oil filtering devices, the necessity for occasionally dropping the oil pan and removing the emulsified substance that collects at the bottom has not entirely passed, advises the National Automobile Club. This item of car care should be attended to at least once yearly. The screen pan should be washed out with kerosene and care should be taken to see that they are thoroughly dried before being replaced.

TRY OLD FAVORITES FOR PICNIC SUPPERS

by the General Electric Consumers Institute

With all due respect to the prepared fresh foods on the market—and a lot of them are awfully good—none of them is quite as good as the foods you prepare yourself.

Take potato salad or cole slaw, for instance. Delicatessens have a big supply on hand all the time, and it's hard to pass them by in the show cases. But they're easy to prepare at home—and so much tastier that way, so why not make them yourself and get the added satisfaction?

Try these General Electric Consumers Institute recipes for a real family treat at the beach, on a picnic in the country or for supper served on your own porch or terrace.

- 2 tablespoons minced sweet or dill pickle
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard

Lettuce, and radish slices

Combine potatoes, eggs, celery and onion in mixing bowl. Mix mayonnaise, salt, pepper, celery seed, pickle, vinegar and mustard, and pour over potato mixture. Mix salad carefully but thoroughly, and chill in refrigerator. Serve on lettuce and garnish with radish slices. Makes 6 servings.

County Help To Be Asked For Recreation

steps are taken on this matter. The question of night lighting has been in the hopper for the past two years.

Budget

Turning to the recreation budget, Pingry reported the city council passed without a cut the $31,440 budget recommended by the commission. Last year's figure was $23,905. The increase is accounted for by the jump in salaries for a full time director and custodian, as well as additional equipment for the playgrounds.

As for the $101,000 parks bond issue, this will be exhausted when present equipment has been paid for and the four utilities buildings at Marchbanks, Edgewood and Frankfort are completed. The structures should be ready for use in about two weeks, Rose declared.

Other business before the commission included:

1. Setting November 11 as the official date for dedication of the Community Center building. The dedication program, as well as an evening dance in the auditorium, will be worked out by the commission. The council had indicated the commission will be virtually in full command of future plans for the building's use.

2. Reported to local folk dancers that the third annual folk dance festival will have to be called off. The dancers had planned to employ the Community Center for the fete on Labor Day, but the city council said the building would not be ready for use at that time.

3. Reported minor work and repairs on the playgrounds is being done by Rose and two day laborers assigned him by the City Administrator. Rose was optimistic, and said he believed this work could be completed by the end of next month.

"Gnats To You" Is The Greeting In Westlake

Close to 7,000 people share the benefits of life in Westlake, but residents of the Cliffside drive area feel that they have more than their share of that lowly pest—the gnat.

So reports A. J. Bodien, Daly City works superintendent. Bodien told THE RECORD yesterday that his office has been "virtually swamped" with calls from the Cliffside drive neighborhood. Residents complained that the minute insects attacked in the evening hours in swarms.

Bodien notified the county mosquito abatement crew, who came to the rescue. This week the county men doused the neighborhood with insecticide, sprayed a nearby settling pond (probable home of the pests) with oil, and brought two trucks and a tractor into the anti-gnat battle.

It is believed that "Gnats to you" will no longer be the by-word on Cliffside drive.

TINY VITAL NICKEL PARTS

In Lockheed's radar-guided F-94 jet night fighter there is approximately $50,000 worth of electronic devices whose operations start with streams of electrons given off or caught by tiny nickel rods, tubing, strip or wires inside the vacuum tubes.

Fluoridation Fight Looms

pends on the water supply to which it is being applied. Essentially, the machinery needed is similar to that in use for chlorination of the water.

Analysis

Before installation, however, it is necessary to have a chemical analysis made of the water. In some communities there has proven to be enough natural fluorides in the water to make the addition of others unnecessary.

The fluoride materials themselves, said Dr. Chope, are "not inexpensive, but not prohibitively costly either. Also, the installation requires continuous checking, but a full-time technician is not in the least necessary."

In favor of the move are various medical and dental societies, Parent Teacher Associations and other civic-minded groups.

On-The-Street Parking Is Not Enough

Residents and top-of-the-hill businessmen have long felt the need of a parking lot to relieve the obviously inadequate facilities in our central business district.

For consumers intent on doing their shopping with local merchants—as they should be—it is an intolerable situation. On-the-street parking has never proved sufficient in any but the smallest and most backward communities. And Daly City is not, and we trust does not desire to be, either of these.

Now in the process of construction is a privately owned lot, located just off the Mission-San Jose junction on Bepler street. There is no doubt that this will prove to be a great help in eliminating the current parking situation, but it is very much to be doubted that it will suffice by itself.

What is needed is a lot—a large one—that will permit any and all would be shoppers to park close to the stores they wish to patronize, at a minimum charge. This sort of thing is widespread throughout the country. All it would take is the efforts of a group of forward thinking local merchants to put it into operation.

In other words, the men who would most benefit are the logical ones to take charge and get something done. As a cooperative effort, it would put no great financial strain on any one merchant, and there can be no doubt whatsoever that it would prove a great incentive to shopping at the hill.

With the sudden springing-up in recent years of shopping districts in the outlying areas of Daly City, it is inevitable that people will turn to the more convenient places to do their shopping. It is time that some of our local businessmen learned that their products alone are not sufficient to attract and maintain a good flow of trade. They must offer extra-curricular services such as easy parking facilities, too.

Now is the time for a group of those with foresight to take positive action. We suggest the Chamber of Commerce as the logical organization to handle such matters—in the name of good business and in the name of the public good will.

Cold Cash Is Chamber's Solution

Last week we pointed out to local businessmen the sure financial doom they face unless they waken to the fact we are living in a 1952 competitive society where advertising in one form or another is essential to prosperity.

Generally, these merchants were in complete agreement with our conclusion. Individuals were quick to concur the saving factor must be a strong Chamber of Commerce. They, too, could see the omen written into bank books and volume of sales...more and more local residents are foresaking homeground for new, boastful shopping centers.

Despite this apparent interest in saving their collective businesses, these same men appear reluctant to take any positive action. They admit a Chamber is necessary, but shuffle their feet and look the other way when the question of financing such an organization comes up.

It's the same old story..."Sure, that's a great idea, but let the other fellow do all the work. I'll cash in on the results."

But there's a new twist to this yarn, for there is no "other fellow" to bear the load. Here's a case where all must pull together, or go down together. This new concept is hard for some of the "old timers" to swallow, especially those tied up with politics.

The way out is simple: a Chamber of Commerce headed by a man or woman who would work full time at the job of promoting business and good will throughout Daly City. But this takes money, and the only way to collect necessary funds is to get the 450 businessmen here to come through with cash. Talk is a great thing, but words won't swing a Chamber of Commerce...money is the only key.

A Peep Through The Broadmoor Back Fence

Occasionally some well meaning, misguided official takes it upon himself to set up a series of road blocks to free news access.

His motives are the best for he is merely attempting to see all the news is printed accurately, and he feels he is the only one who can do the job. Unfortunately, there is rarely a man who can be completely objective, even a public official.

Recently the Broadmoor Property Owners Association board of directors, under the steady hand of President James McKay initiated a freeze-out on free access to news of their meetings.

Intelligent men and women, the board did not forbid a newspaper representative to attend the meetings; but merely ruled out anyone present or any of the board members to report the meeting to a newspaperman. This paradox of censorship is almost too foolish to comment on, except for the serious results.

Finding it impossible to get an accurate report of the meetings from the logical source...President McKay, we were forced to turn to other less accurate, but more communicative sources. We duly reported the meeting, later to understand President McKay was upset at some alleged mistakes.

We wish to report the news accurately and we are sure this is the wish of President McKay and the board of directors. We hope this worthy group will see fit to rescind their censorship order at the next meeting, in order that the Broadmoor residents they represent may get a true picture of board activities.

Meanwhile, we wish President McKay the best of luck with his dabblings in newspaper work, and assure him we wish only to cooperate for the betterment of the community he so generously serves.

We also remind the board that according to the Back Fence, one of the functions of their group is to : "Communicate and disseminate among the members for their enlightenment, information and data..." No mention is made, of course, how this should be done; but logic would call for spreading the news through an established newspaper.

Another Transportation Survey Due

Long a perplexing problem in Daly City has been the transportation headache. During the past two years this has been accented by the growing needs of Westlake residents who must depend upon their automobiles or inadequate Greyhound or Ocean Shore service.

The simple way out of this cul-de-sac appears to be in the form of assistance from the San Francisco municipal railroad. Only trouble, the officials in San Francisco can't quite see the light. During the past two years they have made survey after survey only to come up with a negative shake of their collective heads.

Now, some two years after the problem became acute, San Francisco returns with another survey. We predict this one will be no more helpful than others.

Unquestionably city officials have been doing their best to sway the San Francisco lords of transportation. But it is going to take more than a persuasive argument to beat facts and figures which probably will lead to the same negative reply.

The best temporary solution to the problem appears to be one offered by the Broadmoor Property Owners Association. They suggest running the present Broadmoor shuttle bus into Westlake and back to Daly City. Surely, enough passengers would participate in such a route to secure the bus line's economic future in the black.

However, THE RECORD stands by its first suggested solution to the transportation blues...a privately owned and operated system. We recognize this may not be financially feasible, but why, we ask, haven't steps been taken to at least see if an organization would be willing to come in and take that chance?

Apathetic Council Takes A Chance--With Your Life

After the disaster that razed Tehachapi earlier in the week, it seems pertinent to ask at this time what steps—if any—have been taken by the city council to insure that rampant slaughter will not accompany a similar occurence in Daly City.

If an earthquake or A-bomb strikes in such a congested area as ours, nothing will prevent a terrific initial loss of life. But there are definite and positive steps that CAN be taken to care for the afflicted and suffering in case of emergency. They have not been taken here.

For all practical purposes, there is no such thing in Daly City as a disaster relief organization. Few men are trained to act in the deadly interim before organized outside help arrives. No equipment is stored. No disaster stations have been prepared. Nothing.

Or almost nothing, for there are a few blankets. Each police car carries a blanket. If you die in a catastrophe, the city is at least prepared to decently cover you. And there are about four stretchers ready for service. Enough to carry the bodies to where they can be neatly stacked.

The city council, nominally in charge of such matters, has never seen fit to call a meeting of the few men who have been trained for civil emergencies. When E. George Davis, assistant regional coordinator for the state civil defense organization scaldingly attributed our lack of preparedness to an "apathetic city council," he pinpointed the trouble.

Yet at a caucus meeting held Monday night, the council did not even deem the attack worthy of their attention. They didn't even bring it up. The obvious conclusion is that they intend to sit tight, say nothing, do nothing, and run for the hills when the bombs come or the earth begins to shake.

Patently they are taking the point of view, "Why should we bother to activate a disaster relief organization. San Francisco will take care of us if anything happens." It is time we decided whether Daly City is a city in name or in fact.

Mr. Davis has made it clear that the state organization is ready to help as much as possible. There are trained men in the city ready and eager to join in. But everyone's hands are tied because of the pathetic inability of the council to take action.

PILOTS TALK "SHOP"

The U. S. Navy and the younger generation of flyers discuss, above, tricks of model plane flying alongside one of the new Navy carrier-based jet planes, the Grumman Panther (F-9-F) at the Alameda Navy Airbase. Wayne Springston, 9, of 1110 Neilson St., Albany, one of the entrants in the coming 1952 Northern California Plymouth Dealers Model Plane Meet, talks it over with Navy Pilot Michael O'Laughlin. One of the top attractions at the meet will be takeoffs and landings by gasoline engine-powered model planes aboard a miniature "flattop" copied to scale from a U. S. Navy aircraft carrier, and built under supervision of Capt. R. R. Waller, commanding officer of the Alameda airbase. The exhibition is scheduled for June 22 at San Francisco's Seals Stadium, locale for all control line events. Free flight events will be held at the Tracy Municipal Airport, June 21. The public is invited to attend free of charge.

Slate Crackdown On Unsafe Drivers

In spite of the daily death and injury toll chalked up by traffic accidents, Daly City drivers like all California motorists are still clinging to the feeling "it can't happen to me," highway patrol officials declared today.

They pointed out that the more than 3,400 Californians who died in traffic accidents last year did not think it could happen to them either—but it did.

Who, Me?

But while drivers may insist on ignoring the danger of accidents, they can't ignore the fact that an arrest for a traffic violation—with its cost in money or time in jail—can happen to them, stated the patrol representative.

As an indication that it's happening to an increasing number of drivers, highway patrolmen made 207,431 arrests during the first six months of this year, 22 per cent more than during the same period last year.

Word To Wise

With summer travel nearing its peak, the patrol had a special word for vacation-bound motorists.

"It's up to you if you want to continue believing that accidents can't happen, but you can be certain that no matter where you travel in California, unsafe, unlawful driving will result in an arrest—and the least it will cost you is money."

Western Auto Names PR Official

B. C. Gamble, president of Gamble-Skogmo, Inc., which operates Gambles Western Auto Stores in this area, announces the appointment of Henry Frommelt as Director of Public Relations for the firm.

In addition to his new duties, Frommelt continues as assistant to Carl C. Raugust, vice president in charge of merchandising. Frommelt joined Gamble-Skogmo, Inc. in 1934 as a salesman and has since served the company as assistant manager of the dealer division and as head of the training department.

In the latter assignment, he developed the company's manager training program. He has participated for several years in the various activities of the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce Sales and Marketing Committee.

An earthquake and fire, April 18, 1906, destroyed most of San Francisco with a loss of $300,000,000.

Civil Defense To Exhibit At Fair Next Month

The Civil Defense "Alert America" exhibit—billed as "the show that may save your life"—will be a feature of the California State Fair at Sacramento, August 28 to September 7.

"I have just received definite confirmation from the Federal Civil Defense Administration and the Valley Forge Foundation, creators of the exhibit, that the show, which is free to the public, will be here for our state fair," declared Maj. Gen. Walter M. Robertson, state director of civil defense.

Special Extension

"The California State Office of Civil Defense applied for this show many months ago and the federal government in granting the request explained that it is making a special extension of the original schedule to include the California State Fair mainly because of the record-breaking attendances when the exhibit toured our state earlier this year.

"Los Angeles topped the New York City attendance record; Oakland topped Washington, D.C., and San Diego's turnout was among the five greatest in the nation.

First Exhibit

"This interest of California in Federal government and the Valley Forge foundation to make a departure from previous policy and give the California State Fair the honor of being the first state fair in the nation to get the exhibit."

The show will be in the Industrial Building, the first building on the right of the main entrance, just inside the main gate of the fair.

AVOID FLAT TIRES

A few simple precautions will help avoid delay and inconvenience caused by tire punctures, according to the California State Automobile Association. Keep the floor of your garage clean at all times. Avoid driving through alleys or streets where building or other construction is in progress as nails often get onto the roadway. Don't drive over trash spilled onto streets or highways—it may contain sharp objects.

The Bureau of Land Management is responsible for management of more than 180 million acres of Federal lands in the United States and 290 million acres in Alaska.

William A. Richardson, first harbormaster, erected the first dwelling in Yerba Buena (San Fraincisco) June 25, 1835.

Bill Katz . . . FROM A CORNER

Sleepless nights, brought on by visions of a dark past and a terrifying future, are becoming more and more common among adult Americans.

This disturbing condition, however, has skyrocketed a few paupers from tossing and turning on a straw mat to a sound sleep in a down bed. In a word, the wide-awake entrepreneurs of this country have capitalized on the bleary-eyed "Oh, I wish I could get to sleep," class.

Slipping into the bedrooms of America these gents have devised an impressive number of ways of applying knock-out drops in a civilized manner. A literal crude adaption of this means is the common sleeping pill. These have proven most satisfactory, especially to those looking for a quick exit and a long, never to be awakened sleep.

However, in an age when psychological methods are the fashion, the lastest twist to lulling you to sleep can be found on the record racks of the same stores who feature beep-bob and crooners who never should have been awakened. Shelf after shelf of records, all guaranteed to put you to sleep in a matter of minutes, are for those with $5.00 in their jeans and a phonograph player.

Organ Music

Simple, soft music is the commonest form employed to lull you into the cloudlands. The organ for some mysterious reason is the favored instrument with dirges resembling a funeral march as the musical score. Actually, anyone with a grain of musical appreciation will end up screaming before the needle has found its way half way across the record.

Latest twist to the musical depreciation angle is a rumba band disguised behind an album featuring the picture of a gal who could pass as Marilyn Monroe's cousin. The band is fair, passable enough to make anyone yawn from sheer boredom. Trouble is with the dreamy eyes of the gal staring out at you from the face of the album, it would be somewhat difficult to sleep.

Words, Words

All those who have fallen asleep before the barrage of after dinner speakers can appreciate still another record where a soft voiced misanthrope threatens your sanity with a recital of slinking sounding poetry. He begins with a boom and dribles off into a whisper. He claims this will put your to sleep . . . on the contrary, it will drive you to taking large bites out of the furniture.

Divorce the realm of soothing sound from this study, get down to cases, and there is nothing more condusive to sleep than embarking upon a book designed to inform you of the number of warriors who went down to defeat in a nameless battle on a nameless hill some 3,000 years ago. Of course, this can be written to keep you wide awake, but most historians lack the facility for entertainment. One book we have been reading for the past five years with always the desired result is Gibbon's "The Decline and Fall of The Roman Empire." While far from a dull person himself, Gibbon's style leaves much to be wanted in our particular catalog.

Outside of sleeping pills, records and dull books another means of defeating insomnia is simply a hard day's work and a clear conscience. This happy combination is rarely found in a day of small heads and oversized push button thumbs so it appears the sleepless we shall have with us always and those capitalizing on this weakness getting richer and softer beds every day.

Keith Gardner . . . OFF THE RECORD

Anyone with a fairly good memory should be able to recall the old nursery-school tale about the boy who cried "Wolf!" so often that no one would believe him when he meant it for once.

Well, to make a long metaphor short, the unfortunate position of the little boy is roughly comparable to that of Science in what we laughingly refer to as our civilization. And also that of a few hundred thousand poor fish like me and you, who innocently pick up a scientific treatise, flip through it, and emerge bearing all the classic symptoms of frightshock.

The McCoy

But this time, friends, it looks as if we have a real, honest-to-God live wolf. And he is not merely around the corner; he has climbed the steps, kicked in the door, and is whetting his incisors preparatory to the first bite. And remember, you heard it here first.

Ever since good ole Al Nobel invented dynamite we have had a plenitude of prophets of doom to tell us the end was in sight. This sort of thing has gone on through the invention of every major destructive force, up to and including the H-bomb. But though it is undoubtedly true that you can do quite a lot of damage with an H-bomb, you are not going to wipe out our inhuman humanity with something so paltry that it only levels a few square miles.

Gone Fission

What is needed to send the whole shebang back to the apes is something much more effective than mere atomic fission. And we got the necessary something.

It seems that astronomers, not physicists, are going to be the heralds of our end. It goes like this: for years the boys at Mt. Wilson, Palomar and similar spots have gone on their merry way peeping at the pretty stars and announcing from time to time that one of their number has discovered a sun of the fourth magnitude, classified as No. 703,286 of the north sector of galaxy 27 (see diagram, page 83).

Heart of the Matter

We put up with this pleasant nonsense on the grounds that it keeps the boys happy and out of harm's way, and also adds an infinitesimal speck to the total of knowledge. But in between adjusting their giant lenses, computing the arrival of the next comet, etc., these learned gentlemen occasionally puzzle over some real problems.

One of the big ones being the business of novae. A nova is a sun that burns away merrily for a few billion years, then enexplicably runs amok. In a few short hours, perhaps less, it expands to many million times its normal size—naturally destroying anything in its path—then shrinks to a comparable midget.

Our revered men of science don't know what causes a nova to act in that unfriendly manner, nor when it is likely to do so. But they do know what kind of sun will sooner or later get ideas nova-wise. They have classified and sub-classified all known suns; big ones and little ones that give off all manner of light, even some that don't give off visible light at all, only x-rays.

Orange Dwarfs?

From this classification and their observance of novae exploding in various parts of the universe, they have learned what type of sun is most likely to go boom. They found that the nova-inclined suns are generally those of the classification named Cepheids. And further, among Cepheids, those suns which are named because of their color and size, Orange Dwarfs, are the most liable to explode.

That thing in the sky that burns your nose if you lie on the beach too long is a Cepheid—and an Orange Dwarf.

Who Knows?

It may go off a billion years from now and it may go off this evening. And there isn't an astronomer in the land who could tell you one way or the other. But some of them are going quietly nuts these days looking for Cepheid Orange Dwarfs in the far skies. Trying to determine the symptoms that lead up to the big boom that vaporizes anything in its way. They didn't worry about this before, because just recently did they discover what a potential live-wire we've got on our hands.

Also our sun has been acting a little off kilter recently. We've been having more sunspots and stuff like that lately than in previous years, and the boys on this end of the telescopes are beginning to wonder.

And have you noticed what a warm summer we're having?

Ridgely Cummings . . . HOLLYWOOD

Liberace is a piano player who apparently has no first name and who pronounces his surname as if he were going to say liberty and then suddenly had to sneeze just at the end.

He is half Polish and half Italian and was born in Milwaukee. This I know because he told me, more or less in confidence. There were only some twenty thousand others present.

When Liberace confided in me about his antecedents it was a Saturday night at Hollywood Bowl. On Tuesdays and Thursdays this famous outdoor theatre is the site for serious concerts, but Saturdays are "pops" nights. As used in this connection, "pops" has nothing to do with Daddy's night out but is a steal from Boston and indicates the hoi polloi are welcome.

Normally I prefer good music, symphonies under the stars as they are billed, but recently I have become involved with a brainless chick who thinks listening to a piano player knocking out "Cement Mixer, Putty Putty" is the height of culture. So that's why I went to the Bowl on a Saturday night and if I seem to be apologizing it is because I feel that an explanation is in order for my intellectual readers.

As it turned out, Liberace made box office history. During the concert it was announced from the stage that a new attendance record for the Bowl had been set. Afterwards I prowled around back stage trying to learn the exact figures but never did.

The Bowl is a beautifully designed natural hollow with seats for 22,000. A man wearing an official's badge told me 21,000 bought tickets on this night but a little later a doorman, who let me into an anteroom where the soloist was holding a reception, said the attendance was 20,000. Still later I chatted with the radio director for Armed Forces Radio Services, which broadcast the affair to Korea, and he said the figure he had been given was 18,000.

So I don't know which was correct but anyway it was a record. On that everyone seemed agreed.

I had sensed as much earlier, as we strolled up Highland avenue toward Pepper Tree Lane before the concert. It is a feeling one gets while walking toward football games and other events attracting large crowds.

I don't know how many thousands the Los Angeles Coliseum holds although I've been there and would guess about 90,000. And Kezar Stadium in San Francisco accommodates about 65,000 if memory serves. But both of these are approached by several routes. Hollywood Bowl has just one entrance and although the number is smalled the effect is greater.

That evening the people walking toward the Bowl soon changed from a throng to a parade to an eager mass. My lowbrow chick and I joined this mob at a leisurely pace, for we were in ample time. As people swept past us we soon found ourselves innoculated by the atmosphere of anticipation. Surrendering our individuality, captured by the mass appetite, we discovered we were keeping step with the hurried lovers of be-bop.

They were of all ages and conditions but predominantly in the late teens and early twenties, carrying blankets and cushions and thermos jugs, prepared for a large evening.

The night was cold and foggy, not at all unusual for this time of year in Southern California. It has something to do with air pressure. I haven't looked at a barometer since the war but I knew enough to dress warmly, being a regular patron of Koussevitsky, Mitropolous, et al. My chick, in virginal ignorance of the Bowl's temperature changes, was modishly attired in a black taffeta gown with no sleeves and a little jacket she called a bolero.

The taffeta rustled and looked good but before the evening was over she would gladly have traded it in on a woolen mother hubbard. She was panting and perspiring on the way up, for it is a long uphill climb to the entrance, then up the lane to the ticket windows and finally up winding paths to the Bowl itself. But when the ultimate strains of the punished piano died away she was huddling under half of my coat.

Liberace was a good showman and a more than adequate pianist. He wore a white tuxedo, as did his brother George, who conducted the L. A. Philharmonic, 97 musicians plus three men from Liberace's own TV orcestra.

I went prepared to act a little scornful and patronizing but must admit that, whether or not it was art, it certainly was fun.

Liberace is a chatty chap. He interspersed his playing with brief talks on life in Milwaukee, his musical career, the excellence of Blatz beer, which apparently sponsors his television show, the lovability of his music teacher, a certain Miss Kelley, and some nice sentiments about his mother and Poland, both of whom he admires. He also gave us some inside facts on the lives of DeBussy and Walter Huston and frequent plugs for his records, which one gathered may be obtained in exchange for money.

He managed to do all this without becoming offensive, no small achievement in itself. Even his oft-repeated: "Thank you, ladees and gennelmun, you don't know how grateful this makes me feel," after each wild burst of applause sounded sincere. In addition his playing was spirited and extremely proficient.

Social, Community, Welfare Displays To Highlight Coming County Fair & Fiesta

Special Bldg. To House Interesting Exhibits

For the first time under one roof, visitors to San Mateo County Fair and Floral Fiesta will be able to see all the manifold activities of the county's many social, community and public welfare organizations.

The Fair and Fiesta dates are August 8 through 16.

Special Building

A special building of more than 21,000 square feet is being allocated to the organizations to present their programs to the public, William M. Wilson, fair manager announced today.

In addition, a small theater has been constructed to make it possible for organizations to show films describing their work.

Booth assignments to the various organizations were sent earlier this week, Wilson said.

A display that is expected to receive a great deal of attention is the atomic energy exhibit of San Mateo Junior college. Science students of the college have prepared a number of working models of devices that will illustrate to fairgoers both the constructive and destructive aspects of man's new energy source.

C D Display

Directly adjoining the atomic energy displays will be special exhibits by civilian defense authorities on how to keep alive during either an atomic bombing attack or one with more conventional weapons.

With the San Mateo County Community Chest campaign slated to get underway shortly, four booths are being assigned to the chest and its agencies to assist in publicizing and dramatizing the needs for fulfillment of this year's quota.

The United States government will be represented by a display of the Federal Security Agency and the armed forces.

The California National Guard and the National Guard Reserve will each have a booth to demonstrate their programs.

A F of L Too

Organized labor, which has long given support to the County Fair and Floral Fiesta, will also be represented. The story of the American Federation of Labor will be told by the Building Trades and Central Labor Council of San Mateo.

With 1952 a presidential election year, keen interest is expected to be aroused by the display of the League of Women Voters of San Mateo. A registrar will be present part time to register citizens to be eligible to vote in November.

Toys, pictures and paintings by children will be part of the Parents Cooperative Nursery school booth. The nursery is under the auspices of the San Mateo Junior college.

Apprentice Work

Of interest to visitors at all times will be the booth of the Master Joint Apprenticeship Committee of the Peninsula area. The committee represents the joint labor - management apprenticeship committee for the automotive, carpentry, electrical, lathers, painters, plumbers, plasterers, printing and sheet metal trades.

The Mental Health society of San Mateo county's display will include films in the Little Theater with qualified speakers to comment, as will the Seventeenth district Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Safe Driving

Safe driving will be the subject of a booth being sponsored by the San Mateo County Traffic Safety Commission.

Homemade dolls, aprons and potted plants will be sold at the booth of Delta Chi Sigma Sorority.

The San Mateo County Heart Association will feature an educational display concerning heart disease and ways to combat it.

An exhibit of the members' photography—always a fair favorite—will once again be features of the Fiesta Camera Club and El Camino Camera Club booths.

Exotic tropical fish will be presented to the public by members of the Peninsula Aquarium Society.

The San Mateo County Chapter of the American Red Cross will have an educational display in its booth, as will the San Mateo County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

An exhibit of the many services the Veterans Administration Hospital program provides hospitalized veterans in this area will be the theme of Veterans Administration Hospital at Palo Alto booth.

Also to be seen in the community service building will be what has been one of the Fair's most popular features for the past three years—the elaborate display of the Peninsula Model Train Society.

SUSPEND LICENSES OF LOCAL DRIVERS

Three Daly City motorists received suspension of their driving privileges, and one went on probationary status recently, according to a report from the state department of motor vehicles.

Suspensions handed out late last month and early in July went to Michael Enright, 966 Hanover street, Lewis H. Johnson, 154 Westlawn, and Ernest G. Lindstrom, 1216 Brunswick street.

Enright's license was suspended for failure to meet the requirements of the state financial responsibility law, following an accident. Johnson and Lindstrom for failure to satisfy within 30 days, judgment for a traffic accident.

James Joseph Poket, Jr., 6546 Mission, went on probation for what the department calls "bad records or inability to drive safely."

SLIPPING DOUBLY BAD

A slipping fan belt should not be allowed to go unchecked, advises the National Automobile Club. In the case of many cars, the water pump also is driven by the belt and unless the latter is functioning properly it means a doubly bad effect, with both of the important units of the cooling system thrown out.

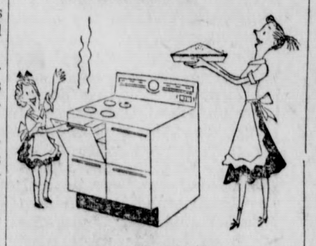
HINTS FOR HOMEMAKERS

NOW'S THE TIME FOR A PEACH PIE

by the
General Electric Consumers Institute

There's nothing like fresh peaches and cream to top off a summer night's dinner. But don't let the family tire of peaches before the season is over.

To add variety to the dessert menu and still take advantage of fresh peaches while they are at their best (and reasonable in price), the General Electric suggests that you serve them in Fresh Peach Pie.



Fresh Peach Pie

Tested in the G-E Consumers Institute

1 recipe of your favorite pastry for 2-crust pie
¾ cup sugar
2-3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca*
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon almond extract*
4 cups pared, ripe peaches, sliced ½-inch thick (5-8 peaches)
1 tablespoon butter

Roll half the pastry recipe to ⅛-inch thickness and place in 9-inch pie plate. Place sugar, tapioca, salt, lemon juice and almond extract in bowl and mix well. Add peaches and stir thoroughly. Put mixture into bottom crust and dot with butter. Roll out remaining pastry and use as top crust. Bake in oven at 400° F. for 45-55 minutes, or until filling is bubbling in center. Serve warm or cold. Makes one 9-inch pie.

*Variation: If preferred, 1-1½ tablespoons cornstarch may be used instead of tapioca for thickening, and ¼ teaspoon each of nutmeg and cinnamon may be used instead of almond extract for flavoring. Use largest amount of thickening for very ripe peaches.

For More Luxurious Dreams . . .

THIS DREAMY MISS, ABOUT TO DROWSE, feels dreamier yet as she snuggles against her feather-light Dynel summer blanket. Dynel, new man-made fiber, has already made history in winter-weight blankets that combine great beauty with warm comfort and remarkable easy care. Now the same qualities are applied to summer blankets that are ideal for coolish nights in the city, perfect for beach or mountain cottages, wonderful as year-round throws. This pretty dreamer's Dynel summer blanket has a delightfully luxurious feel against the skin. Light as a zephyr, it's comfortably warm. As for easy care, it's washable in lukewarm water with virtually no shrinkage or stretching, dries extremely rapidly, is stain-resistant, can safely be disinfected in the strongest bleaches to remove stains or odors. Its rich nap springs back to soft fluffiness, no matter how often washed—without matting down. Absolutely mothproof and mildewproof, it's no storage problem at all. It's fire-resistant, too—Dynel will not support combustion. And, what's more, no case of allergy has ever been reported. You'll find Pepperell's "Caress" of 100% Dynel and North Star's "Springtime" of 50% Dynel-50% wool in pleasing decorator colors at all good department stores. (Caution: be sure to use a "wool-type" bleach on the blended blanket.) ANS Features.

NEW TOURIST RECORD SET THIS YEAR HERE

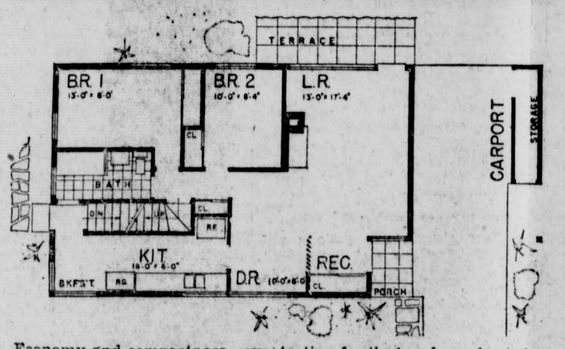
More motorists from out-of-state crossed the boundary into God's country (California, of course) during the first six months of this year than in any previous similar period.

Six hundred and seventy-three thousand, five hundred and one automobiles carrying 1,763,475 fortunate people entered our fair and sovereign state between January and June, reports the Automobile club of Southern California.

The club's tourist bureau said the figure was 14 per cent above the previous mark of 588,099 cars set last year. Aprpoximately 1,540,000 people occupied the cars.

Totals for the second quarter of the year showed that 102,378 out-of-state cars entered the state in April, 121,346 in May and 172,737 in June. The figure for June was the highest for a single month in the history of the state.

Compact House Economical



Economy and compactness, says the architect, were the prime considerations in planning this house. It is Plan No. 205 of Walter T. Anicka, 617 Forest, Ann Arbor, Mich.

Although the dwelling has the feel of spaciousness, it covers an area of only 882 square feet. This figure is useful in making cost estimates. An expansion attic—one of the best-liked features of the modern house—provides space for two additional bedrooms or a bedroom and a playroom.

A combination of materials gives design interest to exterior sidewalls. Blended pastel asphalt shingles provide beauty, economy, fire-resistance, and weather protection for the handsomely pitched roof.

The living room and dining room are separated only by a space divider. This results in a large, open area for unrestricted living comfort. Furniture arrangement would be flexible instead of limited to one fixed way as with small, cramped areas.

There are two bathroom doors, for easy access from the kitchen area as well as from the bedrooms.

Plans call for a basement, but modifications could be made to eliminate the basement and add a ground floor utility room.

(Detailed building plans are available from Walter T. Anicka, 617 Forest, Ann Arbor, Mich. Refer to Plan 205.)

The Charles A. Coffin Medal is awarded annually by the Edison Electric Institute, an industry-wide organization, to that utility having the outstanding record of accomplishments and public service. The Coffin Award, most highly regarded of electric industry marks of distinction, was established 30 years ago.

P. G. and E. wins electric industry's highest honor for major achievements during 1951

A half million dollars every working day was spent by P. G. and E. during 1951 building new plants and new facilities to serve one of the fastest growing areas in the nation. Last year's construction was part of the Company's billion dollar building program which has already doubled the supply of power and gas available to customers in its area since V-J Day. Thrifty citizens—not the government—financed this largest construction program in utility history.

Cooperating with the Government. P. G. and E. has signed two long term agreements with the Bureau of Reclamation. These provide for the sale and interchange of power, and for use of P. G. and E. facilities in marketing Central Valley Project power. P. G. and E. has paid $44 million for CVP power to date and will continue to provide the principal source of revenue for the whole Project. At the same time P. G. and E. continues to be California's largest property taxpayer.

The citation said, in part: "For its courageous undertaking and its able execution of a huge expansion program, for its cooperative and far-seeing acts which brought to all the people of the area and to the taxpayers of the nation the greatest economic advantage in putting to use the electricity generated as a by-product of a major irrigation and flood control project, and for the inestimable value which these great achievements have had in the preservation of the American system of free enterprise and in furthering the progress of the electric industry, the Pacific Gas and Electric Company is hereby declared the winner of the Charles A. Coffin Award for 1951."

Set Deadline For Exhibit Entries At Coming County Fair

With the grand opening of the San Mateo County Fair & Floral Fiesta less than three weeks away, a final reminder was issued in Daly City today that amateur and professional entries must be received by noon, August 4.

Fair dates are August 8 through 16.

Many Filled

"Many classifications have already been completely filled," William M. Wilson, fair manager said, "but there are still a few sections where there is still room for additional exhibitors."

"All indications point to record-breaking displays of indoor and outdoor gardens, floral and agricultural exhibits and a vast number of educational and commercial displays to thrill the fairgoers," Wilson said.

Judging August 8

Judging will take place the afternoon of August 8 following the traditional judges luncheon. The judges from all parts of Northern California will assemble at the fiesta before noon to receive their final instructions and orientation from H. M. Butterfield, University of California agriculturist and chairman of judges.

"All exhibitors, their employees and assistants must vacate the fiesta building during the judging," Wilson warned.

Gardens

As in past years main attention will be focused on the elaborate indoor and outdoor gardens that are already beginning to take shape.

The large area devoted to the county's agricultural economy is also beginning to take form in the massive fiesta building.

Always an integral part of the fair, the amateur division area is being redesigned so as to create the most effective display possibilities.

Other fair features will include a daily fashion show, free entertainment, community special events, a Home & Industry Show and races at Bay Meadows.

BROADMOOR VFW AUXILIARY PLANS TRI-CITY FESTIVAL FOR LABOR DAY

Plans for a gala "Tri-City Festival" were discussed at the regular meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary, VFW 9921 last Tuesday evening.

Sponsored by VFW posts and auxiliary units in the north end of the county, the festival will feature a variety of events which will wind up with a mass parade.

Further information concerning the fete will be published from time to time in THE RECORD.

Meanwhile, the ladies are planning a joint social with the VFW post August 5. This will be to celebrate the third anniversary of the group.

At this same meeting Commander Ed Diaz awarded Mrs. Anita Woods a coveted medal for the best showing in sales during the annual poppy drive.

Bodien Appointed To Planning Body

Appointment of A. J. Bodien, Daly City works superintendent, as member for the First Township to the County Planning Commission, was announced to THE RECORD yesterday.

Bodien has previously served nine years on the commission. His present term will last through four more years.

"The only reason I continue to serve," he said, "is because I feel someone should be looking out for the welfare of the North County area as well as the county as a whole.

"This business of county development under proper planning is more important than most people seem to recognize. If we had had a planning commission years ago our taxes would be considerably lower now."

The commission, he added, acts on zoning, school sites and similar matters.

ARMY TO HELP BUILD TROUT FISHING LAKE

PORTOLA, Plumas County — Preliminary construction work on the Grizzly Creek dam, five miles north of Portola, will be started this month with funds provided by the California Wildlife Conservation Board at its last meeting.

While $5,000 of the Board's parimutuel proceeds was allocated for preliminary work, the final cost of the project is unknown. The 3904th Air Force Command at Reno will provide personnel and equipment without charge for a major jart of the work as part of their training program.

The new dam would also maintain the year-round stream flow of Grizzly Creek.

All of California's portland cement mills lie within a 125-mile radius of the two principal marketing centers—San Francisco and Los Angeles.

One Hundred Local Youngsters Enjoy Lions Fishin' Trip

Lake Merced Is Site For Outing

Nearly 100 local youngsters went fishing with the Daly City-Colma Lions club last Wednesday. Some caught fish and many undoubtedly caught a belly-ache, for the small - fry knocked back over 200 half-pints of milk and 180 cups of ice cream.

In between eating, they concentrated on competing in fishing contest, with results satisfactory to all hands, reports Joe Belli, Lion's chairman of the outing.

Contest Winners

Winners of the fishing contest were Dick Reese, nine-year-old, from the Hoover school, who caught the longest fish; second place man was Ronald Doyle, 13, of Crocker school; and third Henry Oliver, 11, from OLPH.

Reese won a rod, Doyle a reel and Oliver a line.

In the smallest fish contest, Joan O'Keefe, 11, brought in the tinest one of the day—one and a half inches long. She received a silver dollar for the struggle.

The Lions picked up the youngsters in private cars at the various playgrounds throughout the area, transported them to the lake, supervised their fun, fed them and took them home again.

Sound Truck, Too

Sound truck were on hand to keep everyone posted on the fun, and tackle and equipment was provided by Jim Fox, of the Daly City Rod and Gun Club.

GOP Telecast Came Here The Hard Way

In response to an inquiry from a local man, "Were the GOP convention telecasts simultaneous?" Roy N. Buell, San Francisco division manager of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, had this to say:

"The convention pictures (and any microwave show) are flashed across the country at the speed of light—186,000 miles per second. This is the picture only.

"The sound may take a different route along transcontinental telephone cables. The sound is slower—being .06 of a second behind the picture.

Round-About

"From Chicago," said Buell, "the picture went to New York, then back through Chicago and other points across the country to the East Bay hills microwave station overlooking the UC campus.

"From there the picture is sent directly to NBC and ABC outlets in San Francisco. CBS added another leg, however. From the East Bay it went to Los Angeles, where the commercials were added.

"On the return trip, Fresno gets the picture, but inasmuch as that city has no TV station, the picture is shown in an auditorium. From Fresno, the CBS picture goes to the East Bay hills again—to San Francisco's KPIX, and then to Sacramento, where it leaves the microwave for coaxial cable extending northward to Portland and Seattle."

Vince and Fred's Drop Overtime Game To Cooper-Varni Nine Sunday

Daly City Caddies Win Free-Scoring Tilt From Tigers

Overtime Game Abounds In Base Hits and Errors

On the Marchbank diamond Tuesday, July 15, base hits were a dime a dozen and errors even cheaper as the Caddies defeated the Marchbank Tigers 18 to 13.

The three hour and 15 minute marathon opened with a bang as the Caddies, behind the hitting of Edwards, Armstrong and Bricker, jumped to a five to nothing lead at the end of the first.

Tied Up

By the fifth inning the Caddies led 13 to nine but a four run Tiger outburst in the sixth tied up the ball game. George Pedroni's three run double was the big blow of the inning.

Going into the seventh and final frame, Tiger hopes for victory were completely shattered when, with two outs, the Caddies pushed across five runs on two hits and three errors.

Only Four

Winning pitcher for the Caddies was Jim Plunkett who allowed but four hits. Losing pitcher was George Pedroni.

Pedroni, however was the batstar of the day, blasting three hits in five trips to the plate.

Locals Lead 'Til 9th; Lose 4-3 In Eleventh

In their second game of the Northern California Managers Association league play last Sunday at Marchbanks field, Vince and Fred's nine dropped an overtime tilt 4-3 to the Cooper-Varni club.

Leading 3-2 at the end of the ninth frame, the locals seemed to have everything in the bag. With two out, one on and two strikes on the Cooper-Varni hitter, it looked like one more pitch and the ball game was theirs.

Foiled !

So the Cooper-Varniman rapped out a triple, tying the score and sending the game over into 11 innings.

Doing creditable work on the mound for the V and F'ers was Dave Malinoff, and he received top-flight backing from the rest of his teammates.

Standouts were Mickey De Bernardi, who went in for catcher Harry Krohn in the seventh and did good work behind the plate. Krohn went out with an injury suffered when he was struck with a foul tip.

But the highlight moment of the game came when ex-Jeff High star Izzy Galente made a long throw from far left field and pegged his man out at home plate.

Three Hitters

Galente, De Bernardi and Right Fielder Bournellis garnered the local's three runs. Final tally showed that the Vince and Fred team had totaled nine hits out of 41 trips to the plate, and turned them into three runs.

The Cooper-Varni nine came up 43 times, hit for 10, and made four of them count.

Colma Fire Loses A Game But Stays On Top Of League

By Joe Ballarin

The adult softball league in the city requires a crystal ball in order to foretell who is to be the winner.

There are three weeks of play remaining and the odds are any ball club's.

Colma Fire Department is somewhat unhappy over losing last night's game to Tom Tromborg, Jr., and his men, but still remain at the top of the league with four of the teams tied for second.

Gary Bookout and his faded-blue denim men won their first game of the season against the Lincoln Lions. Things are looking up all over.

And speak of looking up, come out and look over the following games, all of which are played on the Jeff High school diamond:

July 24—Lawson Diner vs. D. C. Fire Dept.

July 29—Colma Fire Dept. vs. D. C. Fire Dept. Plumbers vs. Sterling Park.

July 31—Lawson Diners vs. 21 Club.

League standings as of today show the Colma Fire Department on top with three wins, one loss. Four teams are tied for second with two wins, one loss each; they are—Daly City Fire Department, Tromborg Plumbers, Lawson's Diners and the 21 Club. Third place is held by the Lincoln Lions who have won two and dropped three, and last is the Sterling Park club, one win, four losses.

Schedule Drawing For Antlerless Deer Hunt

Five hundred California hunters will be given a chance to take part in an either-sex deer hunting season next November in the Barton's Flat area of Fresno and Tulare counties, under rulings just announced by the Fish and Game Commission.

To qualify, hunters must:

1. Appear in person at the Fresno office of the Department of Fish and Game between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., August 15 or 16;

2. Present a hunting license and deer tag;

3. Take their chances in a lottery-type drawing;

4. Appear in person at the Fresno office between August 20 and 23 to purchase a $5 special permit if their application has been drawn.

The special open hunting season on surplus deer of the area was set by the commission following a June public hearing in Fresno. The move was favored by the Fresno County Sportsmen's Club.

District Game Manager David M. Selleck said that the deer herd is not being harvested or managed properly because the animals do not migrate down from adjacent Kings Canyon National Park until after the local hunting season. The special season was set between November 16 and November 29.

An additional 2,000 deer of either sex could be taken from the herd without lowering the number to the danger point, Selleck stated. He urged an annual controlled shoot on the Barton's Flat herd to keep the population down to match its present food supply.

Sarto Club Loses Swing-Fest Sunday To Vets Home Team

Sarto AC learned last Sunday that it is entirely possible for a team to garner no less than 17 hits and still lose a ball game.

Traveling all the way to Yountville (in the Napa valley) to play the Veterans Home team there, the Sartomen seemingly hit at will, but still lost the game by a score of 14-10.

Tito Sarto and Bill Rainey were on the mound for the local nine, but the real heroes of the game were Second Baseman Teddy Welp and Left Fielder Jack Tanner, who grabbed off nine hits between themselves.

In the 105 degree heat, Welp got 4 for 4, including a homer, two triples, a double and single. Tanner rapped out 5 for 5, with two triples among them.

Hurlers wilt fast in such heat and the Sarto club felt sorely in need of yet a third man to help out on the mound. However, reports team mentor Joe Sarto, this Sunday, with a little luck, will be different. The Sartomen play at San Mateo then; opponents as yet unknown.

Seals Topple Cubs To Maintain Top Spot In Rec League

In the week's feature game of the Recreation league the undefeated Daly City Seals scored a hard fought six to two victory over the Daly City cubs at Marchbank.

Pitcher George Bernasconie of the Cubs kept the Seal's bats quiet with two hits, but poor support by the Cubs and clever base running by the Seals were the difference between victory and defeat.

Big Inning

The Seals scored two in the first on two walks and two errors but their big inning came in the fourth when they tallied four runs on two walks and errors and singles by Baker and Shehadi.

The Cubs made their bid for victory in the seventh when singles by Bernasconie and Eklof coupled with Ty Tiejeiro's long double produced two duns.

Fast Ball

Pitcher Vern Walegoda of the Seals gave up four hits but kept himself out of trouble throughout the first six innings with his well controlled fast ball. Walligoda's batting mate Al Figone threw out four Cubs attempting to steal to aid the Seal cause greatly.

The Seal win virtually assures them of at least a first place tie in the Leaques first half, which is completed next week.

Closed Roads To Keep Deer Hunters Home

LAKEPORT, Lake County—The Cow Mountain access program of the California Department of Fish and Game and Lake and Mendocino county boards of supervisors will not be in operation this year to accomodate deer hunters, according to an announcement from the state agency.

Two access roads will be constructed by the counties. The state department will develop the hunting area, burn brush where needed, develop water sources for deer, and manage the shooting.

Marchbanks Playground

By Leslie Linhares and Frank Ingersoll
Playground Directors

Ship Ahoy! All hands were on deck for the San Francisco Bay excursion on July 9. On this hour-long trip our young sailors enjoyed views of the Golden Gate Bridge, Alcatraz, a fire ship and various piers. Some of the able bodied seamen on board were:

Alan and Francis Mateer, Bill Hopman, Ed. Heckett, Joyce Barnes, Billy and Andy Schrader, Irene O'Brien, Beverly Shelley, Johnny Westrom and Billy Savage.

After regaining their land legs the children wandered through Fisherman's Wharf, then hiked on to Aquatic Park. In the Aquatic Park Museum they browsed among ship models, diving equipment and old bows.

A romp on the beach, and they journeyed on to the Ferry Building, visiting various piers en route. The youngsters completed the day by a visit to the Ferry Building Museum and a ride home on the bus.

Pool Tournament

Since rescuing the pool table from its dusty corner in the back room it has had little rest, from opening in the morning to closing at night it is in constant use. A pool tournament was begun recently but the numerous contestants have delayed its finish. A few of those vieing for the winner's crown were:

Gordon Tydings, Bill Francis, Robert Low, Woody Gaumond, Joe Rosset, Tim Curtin and Marcus Glover.

By popular demand we have decided to hold a bike tournament in the near future. We invite all beginners or experts to join either in learning or teaching.

Girl Of The Week

This week's celebrity at Marchbank's is Cathy Rasmussen. Cathy resides with her family at 443 Vista Grande avenue. She is 11 years old and entering the 7th grade at Colma School.

Like most girls Cathy's ambition is to be a good wife and mother. We can't foretell much about that but we can tell about her athletic abilities. Cathy, an all star, ranks all sports about equal but gives a slight edge to basketball, tennis and baseball.

This ability is readily seen on the Playground where she competes in all sports. This young lady can hold her own with anybody including the junior he-men. This is the outstanding reason for her selection as winner. We have great hopes for Cathy in the coming Olympics at Jefferson.

Boy Of The Week

This week's "boy of the week" at Marchbanks is 11 year old Joe Stagnaro. Joe who was runner up for last weeks award is interested in Stamp and Coin collecting.

Baseball is Joe's favorite sport and he is currently first string third baseman on Marchbanks junior baseball team. Football and basketball also rate high on Joe's activity list. In the food department Master Stagnero is no piker: he likes steak.

Joe's highly competive nature and strong desire to participate in any type of activity are primarily responsible for his selection as "boy of the week." His constant attendance at the playground was another factor in his favor. Joe will receive a pocket flashlight in recognition of his fine citizenship.

Junior Olympics

Olympic fervor, junior style, came to the playground last week as the Marchbanks team made preparation to annex the junior olympic title for the second successive year.

Marchbanks is particularly strong this year in the 11 year and under group with such fine competitors as Billy Magee, Henri Oliver, Skip Crudo and Larry Kane in the sprints; Joe Stagnaro and Jim Wilson in the softball throw; Gordon Tyendco in the potato race; and Tim Curtain and Sonny Martinez in the broad and high jump.

The 12 and 13 year old class had speedsters Andy Ruelas and Jackie Lewkowitz and softball distance man Dan Rasmussen ready for point winning efforts. The 14 and over team at Marchbanks lacks depth but nevertheless a fine nucleus made up of Charles Bridges, Darryl Hall, Dave Rasmussen, Frank Bricker, Frank Mecchi, Tony Gardenal and Jim Marsh gave their all.

In the girls department, Miss Linhares organized a potentially strong team composed of Helen Cava, Cathy Rasmussen, Sue Bridges, Maureen Kennedy, Bunny Lenzini and Kay Harris.

There wasn't a trip to Helsinki hanging in the balance when the junior olympics took place on Friday afternoon at the high school, but the kids really gave their all none-the-less.

Jefferson High Playground

By Marge Erickson and L. H. Reese

The ping pong ladder tournament is headed by DeWayne Soares, last years junior champion. Close on his heels are such fellows as Vince Leonetti, Al Figone, Benny Peralta, Dick Kalinin, Rich Watso, Ron Borden, Ron Kalinin, Larry Kennedy and Jerry Kennedy.

After two straight losses Jefferson finally managed to defeat Brisbane in a varsity basketball game by a score of 34-30.

However this time the lightweight team was upset after having twice defeated the Brisbane Juniors. Top scorers were Don Delbon, Darrel Chapman, Fred Thompson, Al Lagmarsino and Joe Earnshaw.

Bay Excursion: A group of 25 boys and girls went on the Bay Excursion trip Wednesday, July 9. After an hour on the Bay seeing Alcatraz, Goat Island, Treasure Island the group walked through Fisherman's Wharf and had lunch on the Beach near the Maritime Museum.

The afternoon was spent browsing through the Museum. Dan and David Whitney, Mike Crystal, Don Neville, Marjory Graves, James Snyder and Gary Taylor were a few of the boys and girls who enjoyed the trip.

A group of early birds attended the Fishing Day at Lake Merced sponsored by the Lion's Club, which provided free milk and ice cream to the hungry fishermen and fisherwomen. The fish were well feed too.

Laurel and Hardy in "Big Noise" was the movie on Monday. On Wednesday, a doll show was held and Friday everyone went roller skating at Skateland.

Westlake Playground

By A. Bishop
Playground Director

At Westlake, crafts seem to be the most popular activity at the present time. Everyone is having fun making bracelets, key chains, or dog leashes.

Some of them are Richard Mollison, Tommy Asaro, Rennie Bozzini, David Dunbar, Sandy Sarubbi, Cathy Sarubbi, Sandy Enloe, Cynthia Trapeni, Chris Trapeni, and Mart Numan.

Sorry Game is still popular too. Some of the children who enjoy it so much are: Richard Hurly, David and Donald Bosberry, Cathy Barell, Molly Bernard, Rodger Bernard.

Several went on the San Francisco Bay Excursion. Among them were: Janice Gulden, Walter Gulden, Barbara Snell, Marilyn Snell, Mrs. Holman, Miles Holman, Harvey Sullivan, Bruce Wilson, Harold Huthmacher, Alan Huthmacher, and Charles Nougue. We are very grateful to Barbara and Marilyn Snell's mother for transportation.

Edgewood Playground

By Lorraine Cady

Wednesday, June 2, twenty-four boys and girls from Edgewood enjoyed a boat trip around San Francisco Bay. The fortunate children were, Butch Davies, Billy Reynolds, Jimmy Green, Susan Hinds, Paul Hinds, Brian Murray, Tommy Enberg, Colleen McCann, Jimmy McCann, Tom Mays, Roger Stahl, Adrienne Pereira, Patrick Pereira, Steven Lyon, Anne Cheatham, Margaret Cheatham, Bevery Cahn, Ronald Gabbani, Jane Gruenwald, Jimmy Caruwo, Terry Miller, John Jenna, Dolores Spinetti, and Joanne Spinetti.

Besides the boat trip, the excursion included a visit to the Maritime Museum at the Aquatic Park, and a tour of Fisherman's Wharf. Highlights of the day were the close-up view of Alcatraz and the live seal in its enclosure at Fisherman's Wharf.

Edgewood's weekly kickball game ended in close results. Pat Pereira's Pirates conquered John O'Keefe's Orioles with a score of 24 to 22. The top scorers were Joan O'Keefe, Adrienne Pereira, and Joan Malloy.

The younger group at Edgewood held a contest in the sand area to determine who could build the biggest castle. Priscilla Gruenwald and Janet Pope constructed one nearly as tall as themselves.

Edgewood will soon be able to offer basketball in its schedule of activities. Most probably the basketball standards will be completely installed by this week.

July 15, a birthday party was held at Edgewood in honor of the playground director. A cake was brought from home. All those boys and girls who relinquished their right to spank the birthday girl were invited to share the cake.

Lincoln Playground

By John Parina

Last week at Lincoln Playground was highlighted with the presence of 21 children on the S. F. Bay Excursion from Lincoln, on Wednesday, July 9.

Among those who attended the Excursion were Bob Rich, Mary Salmon, Ramon Bermudez, Georgie and LeRoy Rodriguez, Dick Brown, Marilyn Carr and a number of others.

This week at Lincoln there was a ping-pong, Jack and Basketball speed shooting contest, entered in these events were Skinnay Ennis, Ray Markey, Ron Joy, Mike Donovich, Leland Rowe and a host of others.

Arts and Crafts

Parkview, Vista Grande, Crocker and Jefferson Elem. Schools
By Eleanore Hughes

Highlights at Parkview was the movie Tuesday, July 15, of the Arts and Crafts headquarters of the Recreation Department at 255 Vista Grande. All participants are unanimous in expressing that is is wonderful. Ability for instructors to move among boys and girls without stumbling over the youngsters.

While the four to eight year oldsters are busy, older boys and girls retreat to the kitchen to set up wood burning sets, saw plywood into suitable plaques, even shut the door keeping noise from interrupting the youngsters.

The instructors are happy with more storage space, freshly painted walls of gray and light ceilings, the general clean feeling is actually stimulating with space to spread out in.

All craft supplies are now segregated, tools in their handy storage and place to put our supplies to be transported to Crocker and Jefferson Elem. Craft Centers. Our new possessions are the new floor broom and can for refuse.

As many of our attendants can not read our signs telling of the move, will all parents please pass the word around as to where we are now located?

Art activities of all art centers are similar with many interesting variations by individual artists. Aim of instructors to encourage original interpretations. A suggestion rather than something dictated by instructor.

Use of salvage material and inexpensive materials are and will continue to be emphasized at all centers, as a number of children eithher spend the cost of materials before coming to the door or else do not have money, so instructor is often put to thinking fast as to what to suggest to do with no cost.

Girls like to do wood burning as well as boys, creating name tags and lapel pins from tongue depressors, enjoy sanding plaques and embossing aluminum mounting ply wood plaques, sprayed with laquer film, crayoning wood backgrounds.

Every boy and girl must finish wood before burning sanding surface and edges, beveling and rounding corners.

Other enthusiastic craftsmen continue with plastic cord projects, bracelets wound over tin, lanyards, braiding belts. One girl wound cocktail glass with cord putting in initials.

Older boys were wonderful assistants in cutting tin and sawing up ply wood again given to department by our good friend Bill Kinney of Stockton Lumber Co. Every child this week sported name card made from paper contributed by Ideal Printing Co.

The 4 to 8 year olds at Jefferson made hand rolled beads strung with macaroni, gay colored beads strung on gay yellow plastic cord. Some made bracelets to match, also crayoned paper covered from milk cartons, baskets and books made with stiff covers as well as at other centers.

Children made own color schemes Books were designed to paste favorite photos. Lee Weidner brought hers back of carpet wools to aid us in having gay ties for our projects. Thank you Mrs. Weidner. Mrs. Linch of Vista Grande is contributing neckties.

At Vista Grande we welcomed back from a vacation in Canada our good friend Mrs. Anderson who assists us with the younger group. Ralph Cheng and sister, Mary Lou Jordan, Virgil Miller, Chris Hanscom continue to assist us in preperation of materials at Vista Grande.

Up at Crocker Teresa Ann Benaniti, Marilyn Carr good helpers, while James Strytevant, Shirley Gunow, Andrea Anker, Sharon Witte, Tom Maretti, Martha and Julia Zeideke, Rickey Eckle, Mary Jane Whalen and Darlene Witte made very lovey bead necklaces.

Good posters wre made by John Benanti and Maurice Bradshaw for Bay Excursion and Junior Olympics. At Vista Grande good poster by David Creston.

This week, the ambitious teenagers started at all centers, glass decoration that will not wash off. So all parents hunt out the odd glasses, saucers, plates, wooden articles to be decorated gayly and lasting with thermo treated paint that will not chip. The beauty of the crafts will join with the fact that its cost is nil.

One of the most popular crafts is the creation of intriguing hair clasps from plastic cord in the form of dragon flies by girls. Boys continue to make lanyards, dog leashes, etc.

New paper crafts will be the pot holder containers created from paper plates, with gay peasant like designs crayoned on, sprayed and with a gay ribbon hanger salvaged from instructors gift wrapping board.

Remember search out cupboard and closet for those odds and ends that can make so many children happy with that something extra touch.

County GOP Group Prepare For Drive This November

An enthusiastic county Republican central committee at an organization meeting last week in Redwood City, elected the officers who will direct the local GOP presidental and congressional campaign effort in the months prior to the November election.

Frank B. Ingersoll Jr., Burlingame attorney, was the unanimous committee choice for chairman. Hugh A. Wayne, San Mateo advertising executive, was retained as secretary.

Lloyd A. Johnson, Redwood City industrialist, was selected as first vice-chairman. As second vice-chairman the committee gave its unanimous support to Proctor P. Jones, Redwood City political figure. Henry Venturi, veteran committeeman from South San Francisco was named third vice-chairman.

Treasurer

Andrew C. Byrd, Burlingame mayor and transit company executive, was elected treasurer.

In assuming the chairmanship Ingersoll stated that it will be his aim to seek the assistance of all county Republican groups in the campaign period ahead. He said that a unified effort on the part of every party member in the country was vital in order that a smashing Republican victory can be scored at the polls this fall.

J. Arthur Younger, Republican candidate selection at recent primary voting, was presented to the new committeemen. He spoke on th importance of getting the "Republican story" across to every voting resident in the country. He pointed out that both General Eisenhower and Senator Nixon had underscored the need for a Republican congress in their appearance before the GOP convention last wk.

Warning

Younger said that Nixon had sounded the warning before the Chicago delegates that a Republican president's hands would be tied unless he had the solid support of a Republican congress to initiate the vast housecleaning which the federal administration so desperately needs.

The new central committee has scheduled a meeting for the evening of July 24 at the Republican headquarters in San Mateo. Special committees appointed by chairman Ingersoll last night will offer their suggestions at this meeting in regard to campaign and fund raising activities.

Dodd M. McRae, Burlingame, was named chairman of the Rules and Regulations committee. Henry Bostwick Jr., San Mateo, will head the Ways and Means committee. Aylett B. Cotton, San Mateo, was appointed Budget committee chairman.

District chairmen are: Frank C. Tracey, 1st district; Henry Bostwick Jr., second district; Frank C. Belcher, third district; George M. Dunn, fourth and fifth district Dodd M. McRae.

Love that modernistic palm tree-burlap window dressing in Louis Minkin's office window down Westlake way. LOUIS MINKIN, in case your eyes or glasses need checking, is a very fine OPTOMETRIST who just happens to be young, pleasant and attractive as well.

Credit for the wonderful decorative effects in Westlake, however, must go to Mr. Henry Doelger—who keeps a weather eye out for all that is beautiful and unusual in the way of landscaping effects (say his tenants) and sees that they are properly installed.

Nice to see item on Junipero Serra Blvd. is the face lifting job on RUDIE'S at 89th and J. S....The new look is more secretive, but GOOD!

Seems that everyone in town knows GUIDO'S MEATS, especially his famous corned pork—(the kind you needn't boil, just bake!)—but now we notice that Guido has something new—for his customer's best friends! Yes, up behind the counter Guido has a large bright sign saying "Yes, we have a free bone for your dog!" and in these days when every penny counts that sign is mighty good news! Guido's is located in the BUDGET SAVINGS STORE, 6001 Mission!

Mrs. VIRGIL CADY, whose son Norman won the "outstanding athlete" award at Jefferson High school this year, has a word of warning for cat lovers who are also gardeners. Seems she and her husband sprinkled Snarol around to snuff out the snails and slugs—and the cats licked the stuff. Two of the animals are now receiving treatment from T. M. McIntyre, veterinarian at 1983 Junipero Serra Blvd.

San Francisco Offers To Train Auxiliary Cops

A solution to the problem of training Daly City's auxilliary police force was presented Monday evening at the regular council meeting by Toni Ricci, newly appointed Police Commissioner.

At the request of the council, Ricci contacted San Francisco officers who have agreed to train a class of 25 men in police work. Cost to Daly City will be absolutely nothing, Ricci reported.

The commissioners report follows by two weeks a bitter charge by an unidentified auxiliary officer that the council was not giving the auxiliary force the necessary cooperation. Evidently the council's answer was made by Ricci.

The commissioner explained the classes, which begin September 16, are held on each Tuesday and Thursday from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. They last four months.

Recruits are given a full course in police work, including everything from traffic to subversive work. Most important, however, are the lessons in civilian defense, as the auxiliary is to be the backbone of the local civil defense effort here.

Full details of how and when onterested men may sign up for the course will be worked out at a later date, Ricci said.

Viewers Describe A-Bomb Impact

"A force powerful enough to lift a huge Army tank from the desert floor and drive it into the ground at a 45-degree angle."

That will be the description given it by Lt. John Howlett, USN, during the weekly statewide broadcast Monday, July 28, of the state office of civil defense.

Howlett, an instructor at the Navy Damage Control Center School on Treasure Island, was stationed in a slit trench three and a half miles from Ground Zero during one of the recent atomic tests in Nevada and was among those who had a closeup view of damage done to military equipment in the area.

Harry H. Stoops, Civil Defense regional coordinator for the nine counties of the San Francisco bay area, will lead the panel discussion in which Howlett will participate with Stewart Campbell, deputy regional director of the FCDA and John J. Kinney, administrative officer of the FCDA.

Campbell viewed the atomic explosion from a vantage point 10 miles from Ground Zero while Kinney was an observer 40 miles away at a height of 9000 feet.

The brilliance of the explosion, the effects of heat and the force of the blast at varying distances as experienced by members of the panel give an overall picture of what may be expected during atomic attack.

The Daly City man was arrested March 13 of this year by Sgt. Roy Beecher and Inspector A. L. Lamport. He was charged with conducting a bookie operation out of the Serra motel.

The Standard Oil Company of California has been fined $100 in the El Segundo justice court for oil pollution near the El Segundo pier. Arrest was made by State Fish and Game Wardens Royal Sehoen and C. Towers.

JUST 10 YEARS AGO Daly City had one of the best civilian defense organizations in the state of California. Today, however, state officials believe we have one of the worst. This may be because of a shortage of volunteers, but that was not the case 10 years ago, as this picture demonstrates. In this defense drill of Sunday, February 15, 1942 a good number of people appeared interested in saving their lives in case of emergency. (Picture courtesy of A. J. Bodien)

McKim Found Guilty On Two Counts Here

Municipal Judge William J. Sweney Tuesday found a San Franciscan, Don Carlos McKim, guilty of drunken driving and resisting arrest on the night of May 2. Sentence was delayed until July 30.

McKim reportedly struck at the gun arm of Daly City Police Officer Al Conci while the policeman was searching him following a hectic chase that ended on Alemany extension in the small hours of the morning.

Conci testified that he struck McKim in the back of the neck after the latter had grabbed at the hand in which he held his gun. McKim, said Conci, then jumped into his car, locked the doors, and refused to move.

Conci reported that he called for aid from Officer John Coleman, and McKim came out of the car when they threatened to shoot.

McKim's car was reportedly being chased by San Francisco police when Conci joined in and caught him.

SF Driver Almost Enters Restaurant . . In His Automobile

A San Francisco driver early Wednesday morning nearly ended up inside the Colonial restaurant on Junipero Serra, car and all, reports Officer Ray Savage of the Broadmoor police.

Ernest Goldbeck, 125 Door St., San Francisco, was reportedly traveling north on Junipero Serra when he attempted to turn into the cafe parking space.

Crashing into one car, he neatly bounced off into another — a fact which prevented him from crashing into the restaurant itself, say police.

The two damaged cars belonged to William Alumbaugh and Raul Martinez, both of San Francisco.

Seth Gordon director of the California Department of Fish and Game, will address a Noon meeting of the Advertising Club of San Francisco to be held July 30 in the Palace Hotel.

Wild Shot Smashes Into Westlake Home

A family recently moved into Westlake was greeted with a bang last Friday when a .22-caliber bullet smashed through their bedroom window and ricochetted wildly around the house before coming to a halt.

Daly City police, summoned by a frightened phone call from Mrs. Alfred Engel, 195 Ashland drive, found three 17-year-old San Francisco high school youths in the nearby hills who had been target-practicing with a .22 rifle.

The youths were taken to police headquarters and later released in the custody of their parents with the proviso that they pay for all damages.

Recently moved here from Madera, Mrs. Engel reported that she normally sat in front of the window the bullet entered doing her sewing. By good fortune, she was in the front room of the house talking to her mother when the shot entered.

The slug drilled a ragged hole through the bedroom window, bounced off the room's door, ricochetted down the hall and into the bathroom door and finally came to a halt.

Mrs. Engel said that she thought the noise was caused by workmen outside dropping lumber until she entered the bedroom and saw the bullet-hole.

NEW SYNTHETICS ARE FUN TO WEAR — AND EASY TO LAUNDER IN A WASHER!

by the General Electric Consumers Institute

If it's washable . . . use your washing machine. And that goes for the new synthetics as well as for other fabrics.

It may surprise you, but that's the recommendation of experts in the General Electric Consumers Institute, where extensive laundering tests have been carried out on the most common synthetic fabrics.

Although washing instructions now found on synthetic fabrics (such as Orlon, Dacron, Nylon, Dynel, Fiberglas, etc.) usually recommend hand washing, tests have proven that laundering these fabrics in a washer leaves fewer wrinkles in the garments—and that most of the garments need no ironing when washed in the washer and allowed to drip dry.

Check Construction

Garment construction, particularly the trim and lining, is a major governing factor in deciding whether a garment is washable. But if the fabric manufacturer says it's washable, save yourself time and energy by using your washer, with warm water and a mild soap or detergent in all cases.

Before washing any synthetic-fabric clothing, test the seams by scratching the edges with a fingernail to make sure the seams do not ravel.

For best results, pad with wash cloths the shoulders of all garments which are to drip dry, and finger press seams, collars and cuffs occasionally as the fabric dries. In some cases, seams, trimmings and pockets may be ironed, when dry, with a cool iron for best results.

Here are the Consumers Institute instructions for laundering synthetic fabrics in an automatic washer:

100% Dacron Suit (all "findings"—lining, etc.—Dacron)

Wash 3-5 minutes, spin 3 minutes, rinse 3 minutes. Remove from washer without spinning, wringing or squeezing. Hang trousers by cuffs on pants hanger; hang jacket on well-shaped wooden or plastic coat hanger. Pad shoulders with wash cloths and smooth shoulders with palm of hand. Allow to drip dry; weight of the water will press the suit as it dries.

Visa (55% Dacron-45% wool) or Lorette (55% Orlon-45% Wool) Dress (accordion-pleated skirt)

Wash 2 minutes, spin 3 minutes, rinse 2 minutes. Remove from washer, hang on well-shaped hanger; pad shoulders. Allow to drip dry.

Nylon Dress

Wash 3 minutes, spin 3 minutes, rinse 3 minutes. Remove from washer. Hang on well-shaped padded clothes hanger. Allow to drip dry. Finger press seams to prevent puckering as dress dries.

Nylon-Rayon Dress

Wash 3 minutes, spin 3 minutes, rinse 3 minutes. Allow to drip dry. Press, when dry, with iron set for "rayon."

Dynel Baby Blanket

Wash 1½ minutes, spin 3 minutes, rinse 1½ minutes, spin-dry 3 minutes. Place in automatic clothes dryer for 15 minutes. Blanket needs no stretching but may be brushed in one direction with soft brush. Press binding with steam iron.

Orlon Coat

Wash 1½ minutes, spin 3 minutes, rinse 1½ minutes, spin-dry 3 minutes. Place in automatic clothes dryer for 25-30 minutes. When dry, hang on well-shaped clothes hanger, shape, and air.

Nylon, Fiberglas, Dacron or Orlon Curtains (marquisette-weave)

Shake curtains to remove dust. Place them in pillow cases or mesh bags (2-3 curtains per bag). Use 3-minute wash, 3-minute spin and 3-minute rinse. Remove from washer, squeeze gently to remove excess water, and hang on rust-prof curtain rods.
